CHILDREN, PLAY, AND THE BUILT ENVIRONMENT

DO YOU WORRY ABOUT YOUR CHILD'S ACCESS TO OUTDOOR PLAY OPPORTUNITIES?

Join international expert Robin Moore to learn about creating built environments that foster children's play and learning. Robin will provide examples illustrating the challenges and successes of places, programs, and policies that positively impact child development and what you can do as a parent. Following the presentation, there will be a question and answer period. Children are welcome.

Robin Moore is an international authority on the design of children's play and learning environments, user needs research, and participatory public open space design. Moore holds degrees in architecture (London University) and urban planning (MIT), and for most of his career has worked in the field of landscape architecture as educator, researcher, and consultant.
